

OCCUPY WALL STREET

Geraldo Rivera Talks Occupy Wall Street On Fox & Friends: ‘Let the freezing rain drive them away’

2

Like

0

By Anna Sanders 10/14 1:08pm

After Brookfield announced this morning it will postpone the evacuation (or, as the protestors said, “eviction”) of Zuccotti Park for cleaning, Fox & Friends spoke with Geraldo Rivera, Liberty Plaza reporter and Geraldo at Large host. Mr. Rivera expressed some sympathy for the protestors, explaining, “There is a tremendous frustration and fear for the first time.” But, he added, “they are flailing around for someone to blame.”

Mr. Rivera admitted that the protestors are “sincere,” to the complete shock of Fox & Friends co-host Brian Kilmeade, but said Brookfield is nonetheless correct in postponing the clean-up because the freezing rain could drive protestors away sooner. He compared those at the protest to the people waiting in line for the new iPhone at the Fifth Avenue Apple Store—or, as he puts it, “basically young people in their mid-twenties on their parents’ payroll.”

Mr. Rivera said he’d return to cover the protest for his show on Sunday and that Occupy Wall Street “lied” when they said he was driven out of Zuccotti Park. Apparently his show was done filming.

After the smartest man on Wall Street, Jesse LaGreca, made a Fox News producer look stupid, it’s not hard to see where the enmity comes from.

asanders@observer.com

Follow Anna Sanders via RSS.

topics: OCCUPY WALL STREET BROOKFIELD FOX

0

2

Like